

Master in Law

NAVIGATING THE REGULATORY STATE

LAWM 529 • Spring 2021

Mondays 5:30 – 8:15 PM

Charles Howland, Esq.

Partner, Curtis, Mallet-Prevost, Colt & Mosle LLP

While not usually thought of, many federal and state laws are implemented by agencies, which develop, issue, and enforce detailed regulations. This course will equip students to understand how legal, policy, institutional, and analytic considerations inform the crafting of regulations. Students will be introduced to administrative law, with an emphasis on how regulatory agencies carry out laws to reduce environmental, health, and safety risks, and ensure capital and energy markets operate efficiently and fairly. Students will read and discuss various landmark court cases, articles regarding regulation and current events.

Register on Penn In Touch using Subject Code LAWM or visit ML's Take a Law Class page at: <https://www.law.upenn.edu/admissions/master-in-law/take-a-class.php>

Interested in the Master in Law degree or Certificate in Law?
Visit www.law.upenn.edu/admissions/master-in-law