Loran Grishow-Schade ML'21

Loran Grishow-Schade (they/them/theirs) is a triple Masters candidate in Penn Carey Law School (ML anticipated '21) and the School of Social Policy and Practice (MSW '20, MSSP anticipated '21). They serve as an inaugural member of the Restorative Practices Penn Student Steering Committee, as a member of Penn Lambda Law, and as Vice President of the SP2 Student Government.

Loran is a collaborative world builder committed to sustainable and liberatory models of change through trauma-informed and data-driven practice. They are a passionate, intersectional, abstract conceptualizer actively centering lived experiences and data in systemic and organizational change. Loran has over ten years' experience with program direction, policy construction and research, consultation, youth advocacy, civic engagement, and direct services.

Loran's work is driven by the belief that they are accountable to trans, queer, and intersex populations, that they show up for populations of Color, and that they listen and pay attention to the ever-changing benchmarks dominantized populations place on marginalized and oppressed people.
