

Office of Inclusion and Engagement Student Advisory Board Member

Ryland Ploeger L'23

Ryland Ploeger is a lifelong Pacific Northwesterner who graduated from Gonzaga University with degrees in International Relations and Political Science in 2017. After graduation, she spent several years teaching English and working in the NGO space in the Middle East, including a Fulbright Fellowship in Bahrain and a youth development role in Za'atari Refugee Camp in Jordan. Upon her return to the US, she continued her engagement with refugees and displaced communities as a research assistant at Harvard Graduate School of Education and as an outreach manager for an NGO-focused social enterprise.

As a proud first generation law student from rural Washington State, she looks forward to helping create space for students with unique backgrounds to come together, learn from one another, and create a more welcoming, inclusive culture for new and diverse entrants to the legal profession.
