

Office of Inclusion and Engagement Student Advisory Board Member

Lydia Anglin, L'23

Lydia Anglin is a 1L at Penn Law, proud "Jamerican" - Jamaican-American, and grew up in Houston, TX.

As a passionate advocate for racial and gender equality, Lydia frequently pens articles on diversity and equity, worked for 4 years in the multicultural recruitment office at Cornell University, served as a 3 year campus manager and writer for Jopwell, co-founded the Black Ivy Pre-Law Society, and supported socioeconomic policy initiatives as an intern within the Obama Administration.

Before law school, Lydia worked at Goldman Sachs with prior experience in energy, financial services, and public policy. After law school, Lydia is committed to working on ESG matters with a lens on corporate social responsibility.