JD ADMISSIONS AND FINANCIAL AID INFORMATION

We welcome your interest in Penn Carey Law and provide this information to guide you through the admissions and financial aid processes.

Applicant Eligibility Requirements

All applicants must hold a bachelor's degree to be eligible to enroll in the Juris Doctor (JD) program. Applicants for the JD degree are admitted for the fall semester on a full-time basis only. All applicants must take an approved standardized test (either the Law School Admission Test (LSAT), the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), or the Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT)) and must register with the Credential Assembly Service (CAS) through the Law School Admission Council (LSAC). (See Test Administration and LSAC Credential Assembly Service information below.)

Transfer (Advanced Standing) Admission

Students enrolled in a part-time or evening division program at any time during their first year of law school are not eligible to apply to Penn Carey Law for transfer. Transfer applications will be considered only when the student has successfully completed all the courses required in the full-time 1L year of the home school. The number of credits transferred will equal the number of credits successfully completed in that program; transfer students who are deficient in any 1L courses required at Penn Carey Law (Civil Procedure, Constitutional Law, Contracts, Criminal Law, and Torts) will be required to complete those courses as part of their upper-level coursework at Penn Carey Law. The law school from which the applicant seeks to transfer must be able to certify that the applicant has completed all requirements and credits for that school's full-time first-year program. Applicants must fulfill the first-year course requirements at their host law school by the completion of the spring semester. Transcripts reflecting grades for all courses taken must be submitted to the Office of Admissions by June 30.

Applicants for advanced standing must be in good standing at a law school that is both a member of the American Association of Law Schools (AALS) and approved by the American Bar Association (ABA). We begin receiving applications for advanced standing on May 1. All applicants for advanced standing must submit the application form by June 15. Supplemental application materials may follow later, such as letters of recommendation and law school transcripts, but all required application materials must be received by June 30. Applicants for advanced standing will not be reviewed until we have received transcripts for both fall and spring semesters of the first year of law school. Decisions are made on a rolling basis beginning in mid to late June.

Applicants for advanced standing are required to provide the same documents that are required for first-year applicants (i.e., completed application form, application fee, personal statement, résumé, and the LSAC Credential Assembly Service Law School Report, which includes academic transcripts from all institutions attended and two letters of recommendation--preferably from law professors). Additionally, applicants for advanced standing must provide a letter of good standing from the law school dean, or appropriate administrator, at the current law school. This letter of good standing must cover the fall and spring semesters and therefore, should not be obtained until the completion of the spring semester. We do not provide a form for the letter of good standing; the letter can be generated in whatever format the home law school uses. The letter of good standing is not the same as a dean's certification letter or letter of class rank. The letter of good standing must be emailed from an authorized administrator at your home law school directly to us at contactadmissions@law.upenn.edu.

Transfer applicants are required to submit their application and letters of recommendation electronically through the LSAC electronic application service. Official law school transcripts should also be submitted through LSAC, but we will accept law school transcripts sent directly to Penn Carey Law only if they are sent via an approved electronic transcript service to contactadmissions@law.upenn.edu. In addition, we will not accept unofficial transcripts or grade reports. Finally, we will not accept emailed copies of transcripts.

Transfer applicants are not eligible for need-based financial assistance (grants).

Transfer applicants are not eligible for an application fee waiver.

Standards for Admission

The admissions process at Penn Carey Law is highly selective. Last year, we received over 6,000 applications for the approximately 250 places in the first-year class. Students who apply to Penn Carey Law come from every state in the nation, from many countries around the world, from more than 200 undergraduate institutions, and from a broad range of academic, ethnic, cultural, professional, and economic backgrounds.

There is no pre-law educational requirement or even a specific recommended course of study for admission to Penn Carey Law. Strength of character, breadth of knowledge, and intellectual maturity constitute the base upon which our legal education builds. As such, Penn Carey Law seeks to enroll individuals who have demonstrated outstanding academic success, who are intellectually curious, and who possess superior writing, oral communication, and analytical skills. Importantly, we also seek individuals who will positively contribute to the Penn Carey Law community, and ultimately, to the legal profession, based on their diverse personal and professional experiences, and any challenges or obstacles that they may have overcome.

The Admissions Committee considers numerous factors in the admissions process, including the student's academic record, course selection and grade trends, standardized test scores, letters of recommendation, leadership, community service, extracurricular activities, professional and life experiences, and the applicant's examples of written expression (standardized test writing samples, personal statement, and optional essays). Importantly, the Admissions Committee bases its decision on all material submitted on behalf of each candidate. Though an applicant's academic record and standardized test scores are factors in the review process, they are not the sole factors. We do not have numerical "cut-offs" in the application process, nor do we employ the use of an admissions index.

Due to the large number of applications from all over the country and other parts of the world, the admissions committee does not grant requests for evaluative or individual informational interviews as part of the review process. However, we invite all applicants to visit the Penn Carey Law website to become more familiar with the Law School, the University campus, and Philadelphia. Furthermore, we encourage applicants to ask any questions by email to contactadmissions@law.upenn.edu.

How to Apply

We require you to submit an application using the following format:

LSAC Electronic Application available at LSAC.org

Application Requirements and Instructions

Application Form

Please provide complete information for each question on the application in the spaces provided. You may attach additional pages (as an upload in Attachments) to complete or elaborate on this information. Please answer all questions fully and accurately. A copy of your law school application will be retained for a minimum period of three years. For those students who matriculate, a copy of your application will be sent to the Committee on Character and Fitness when you apply to take a state bar examination or seek admission to the bar. Please be advised that there are character, fitness, and other qualifications for admission to the bar and that as an applicant, prior to matriculation, you should determine what those requirements are in the state(s) in which you intend to practice. More information is available at the National Conference of Bar Examiners: <http://www.ncbex.org/>.

Please answer all questions on the application form unless otherwise noted.

Application Fee

The application fee is $80 (nonrefundable). You have a choice of paying the application fee by debit or credit card. When you pay the application fee through LSAC with a debit or credit card, you will also sign your application with the electronic signature option. Transfer applicants are not eligible for an application fee waiver.

Test Administration and LSAC Credential Assembly Service (CAS)

Every applicant must take an approved standardized test and must register with the Credential Assembly Service (CAS). You may register for the LSAT and/or the Credential Assembly Service online at LSAC.org or by phone at 215.968.1001. You may register for the GRE here; Penn Carey Law's school code for GRE score reporting is 4122. You may register for the GMAT here; Penn Carey Law's school code for GMAT score reporting is G56-RV-81. We will not accept test-taker score report copies.

All valid and reportable LSAT test scores, taken June 1, 2017, or thereafter, are considered as part of your application. Please report the highest LSAT score obtained on the application form in the Standardized Test section. We do not require that all GRE and/or GMAT test scores, taken within the last five years prior to your file being completed, be reported and submitted as part of your application. If an applicant has taken the LSAT and has a reportable LSAT score, an applicant may choose whether or not to share GRE and/or GMAT test results. If you would like your GRE and/or GMAT test scores to be considered in addition to your LSAT score(s) then please fill out the GRE/GMAT Standardized Test section of the application form and we will request those score reports from ETS and/or GMAC. At its discretion, the Admissions Committee may evaluate your application based on the highest score.

Each applicant must also register with the LSAC Credential Assembly Service (CAS) and arrange to have all transcripts sent from each college or university attended to LSAC. When we electronically receive your application, we will automatically request your Credential Assembly Service Law School Report, and LSAC will send it electronically to us. The CAS Law School Report includes your LSAT score(s) and LSAT writing sample(s) if you have taken the LSAT, copies of your academic transcript(s), an undergraduate academic summary, letters of recommendation, and other information. Please note that your law school report will NOT be released by LSAC until all required transcripts have been received and processed by LSAC.

Penn Carey Law requires that any international transcripts be submitted through the LSAC Credential Assembly Service (CAS) for applicants who completed any postsecondary work outside the US (including its territories) or Canada. You must use this service for the evaluation of your international transcripts. The exception to this requirement is if you complete the foreign work through a study-abroad, consortium, or exchange program sponsored by a US or Canadian institution, the duration of the program is not more than one year, and the work is clearly indicated as such on the home campus transcript. This service is included in the Credential Assembly Service registration fee. An international Credential Evaluation will be completed by the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers (AACRAO), which will be incorporated into your Credential Assembly Service Law School Report.

To use the CAS, log in to your online LSAC account and follow the instructions for registering for the service if it has expired. Be sure to print out a Transcript Request Form for each institution and send it promptly to them. More time is usually required to receive international transcripts.

Applicants are reminded to monitor their LSAC account to ensure that the account is current so that their law school report will be released to us on a timely basis.

Recommendation Forms and Letters

Penn Carey Law requires that you submit your letters through the LSAC Letter of Recommendation Service. Your CAS law school report will not be released to us until at least two letters of recommendation are on file with LSAC and targeted to Penn Carey Law. This service is included with your Credential Assembly Service registration. You must use the letter of recommendation form available online through the LSAC Letter of Recommendation Service for each letter submitted to LSAC. Please do not send letters directly to Penn Carey Law.

Letters of recommendation from individuals who can comment on your intellectual capacity and analytical and written communication skills are extremely useful in a rigorous selection process.

Therefore, we require two letters of recommendation from individuals who have served as recent academic instructors or advisors. Note that we will accept up to four letters of recommendation; however, your application is deemed complete with two letters of recommendation.

Personal Statement

The admissions committee requires that every applicant submit an original example of written expression. The purpose of this personal statement is to provide you with as flexible an opportunity as possible to submit information that you deem important to your candidacy. You may wish to describe aspects of your background and/or interests--intellectual, personal, or professional--and how you will uniquely contribute to the Penn Carey Law community and/or the legal profession. Please try to limit your statement to two pages, double-spaced, label it as "Personal Statement", and include your name and LSAC account number on each page.

Optional Essays

If you wish, you may write an additional essay on any of the following topics. These optional essays allow you an opportunity to provide the admissions committee with additional relevant information that you were not able to include in your personal statement. You may answer more than one essay topic if you so choose. Please include your name and LSAC account number on each page and try to limit optional essays to one page, double-spaced.

- These are the core strengths that make Penn Carey Law the best place to receive a rigorous, collaborative, and engaging legal education: genuine integration with associated disciplines; transformative, forward-looking faculty scholarship; highly-regarded experiential learning through clinics and our pro bono pledge; innovative, hands-on global engagement; and a manifest commitment to professional development and collegiality. These qualities define Penn Carey Law. What defines you? How do your goals and values match Penn Carey Law's core strengths?
- Penn Carey Law is committed to achieving an expansive and inclusive law school community that brings a diverse range of ideas, experiences, and perspectives to our classrooms. Tell us how your lived experience informs who you are today.
- Describe a significant challenge you have faced and the steps you have taken to overcome this challenge.
- What strength or quality do you have that most people might not see or recognize?
- What don't we see in your application file that you would like to share with the Admissions Committee?

Applying for Joint-degree Programs

Penn Carey Law leads in cross-disciplinary education of law students. Every year, a number of our applicants and students apply to more than 20 formal joint-degree programs, either contemporaneously with the Penn Carey Law application or in the first or second year of their law study. Additionally, on an ad hoc basis, students have successfully combined graduate study outside of these formal programs in other graduate and professional schools at the University of Pennsylvania. If you are interested in supplementing your legal education with study at other programs/schools at the University, we encourage you to discuss that interest with their Admissions Department. Note that you must apply individually to each program; admissions decisions are made by each program independently. You will find a list of most of our available formal joint-degree programs on the Application for Admission. Additionally, detailed information regarding each program may be found on our website at <https://www.law.upenn.edu/crossdisciplinary/jointdegree/>. If you are applying to another graduate program, or intend to, please provide the information requested in the Application Data section of the Application Questions.

Application Status/Questions

The Penn Carey Law Office of Admissions is committed to serving our applicants as efficiently and effectively as we can during the application process. Please be advised that it takes approximately one to two weeks from the date that we receive the application and the Credential Assembly Service Law School Report to process and complete the application file. We will notify you of the date upon which we receive your application and inform you of any missing documents upon receipt of your Credential Assembly Service Law School Report. We will also notify you of the date upon which your application is complete. Once your file is complete, it is placed in a queue for the admissions committee and files are evaluated on a rolling basis. The evaluation process may take up to four weeks from the date upon which the application is completed, though you may receive a decision much sooner. Applicants will be able to check the status of their application at any time using Application Status, Penn Carey Law's online application status checker. To access the online status checker, you can go to our website at <https://www.law.upenn.edu/admissions/how-to-apply.php>. Your LSAC account username and password are used to access the application status checker. Please be sure that you have allowed adequate time for your application to be processed, completed, and evaluated before calling the Office of Admissions to check on the status of your decision.

Email Notification

Please note that an email address is required. We communicate via email with applicants regarding the status of their application; thus, it is imperative that you provide an email address on your application and it remains current throughout the admissions process. You will be notified by email when your application is received, again when your application file is complete, and possibly at other times to update you on the status of your application.

Please promptly notify us of any changes to your email address or any changes to your other contact information. Applicants should be aware of their service provider's procedures for spam filtering that may affect delivery of any email communications sent from the Office of Admissions. Steps should be taken to ensure that messages will be delivered promptly.

Applying for Financial Aid

Financial assistance is available to qualifying applicants in the form of the Public Interest Loan Repayment Assistance Program, and federal and private student loans. Admission decisions at Penn Carey Law are made without regard to an applicant's financial need.

Toll Loan Repayment Assistance Program (TolLRAP)

Penn Carey Law is committed to promoting the pursuit of public interest careers, and TolLRAP offers generous repayment assistance, on an annual basis, to Penn Carey Law graduates working in public sector careers. A full description of TolLRAP can be found on our website at <https://www.law.upenn.edu/admissions/financing/>.

Loans

Various federal and private loans are available to help students fund their education at Penn (repayment terms and interest vary). Students can borrow through the Federal Direct, Federal Direct Graduate PLUS, and other student loan programs. Application and program details can be found at <https://srfs.upenn.edu/financial-aid/loan-types>.

International Students

International students may apply for loans from private student loan lenders. Please note that student loans for international students require a U.S. cosigner. U.S. federal student loans are not available to international students. More information on private student loans can be found on Penn's website at <https://srfs.upenn.edu/financial-aid/loan-types>.

International students are eligible to participate in our Toll Loan Repayment Assistance Program (ToLRAP).
