We are, first and foremost, experienced courtroom lawyers. From the moment we become involved in a matter, we prepare as though our client’s case will be decided by a jury – a perspective that shapes all strategic and tactical decisions throughout the litigation process. We represent businesses and individuals throughout the country, as both plaintiffs and defendants.

At Robins, Kaplan, Miller & Ciresi L.L.P. we focus on delivering rigorous trial advocacy training to our associates. Our firm created The Exceptional Advocate Training Program, a multi-year, three phase curriculum that allows associates to try cases in a state-of-the-art replica federal courtroom, in front of real judges and outside mock juries.

In addition, we are proud of our pro bono efforts and community giving. We generously count all associate’s pro bono work toward their billable hour goal without a cap. Since 1999, the firm has made more than $30 million in charitable contributions.
