Lobel Novins & Lamont

Name: Lobel Novins & Lamont
Location: Washington, DC 20006
Country: USA
Address: 888 Seventeenth Street, NW
Suite 810
Phone: (202) 371-6643

Organization Type: Law Firm -- Public Interest Focus/Practice
Organization Description:
Lobel, Novins & Lamont (LNL) began in 1972 as one of the public interest law firms that blossomed in Washington D.C. then. Unlike many, LNL tried due to a combination of uniqueness and depth that enabled it to respond to the changing and expanding needs of its clients.

From its inception, LNL has devoted much of its practice to representing journalists and State governments. Over the years, it has represented over 100 journalists and 29 states in a variety of capacities and on a breadth of legal issues. LNL has represented state clients before the United States Supreme Court, rural county courts, numerous federal agencies and congressional committees. It has served as advisors, investigator, and negotiator.

LNL is perhaps most widely known for its work in the energy field, and indeed, a substantial part of the firm's practice on behalf of State and private clients has focused on the activities of the energy industries. LNL's energy practice has included virtually every aspect of the energy business - leasing, production, transportation, refining, distribution, and marketing - and has involved issues of royalties, imports, exports, crude oil pricing and allocation, old and gas pipeline regulation, gas storage and distribution activities, refined products pricing, supply contracts, electric utility regulation, taxation and other economic issues and consequences of the activities of the energy industries. More recently, LNL has dealt with the merging of traditional regulatory mechanisms with competitive market forces.

While LNL is perhaps most widely known for its work in the energy field on behalf of State and private clients, it has expertise and success in other practice areas. LNL is one of the few private firms with expertise in State taxing power under the U.S. Constitution, including the federal treaty power, Commerce Clause and Equal Protection Clause. LNL has represented State interests before the United States Supreme Court in cases involving State unitary taxes and taxation of other interstate business transactions. In addition, LNL has assisted the states of Hawaii and West Virginia in limiting their liability under State tax statutes which were ruled unconstitutional.

LNL has a well-developed administrative law and lobbying practice. The firm has represented State and private interests before many federal agencies, ranging from the Central Intelligence Agency to the Federal Trade Commission to the Department of Agriculture. And in a registered or unregistered capacity, LNL has been involved at the congressional level in a wide variety of issues including health care, pharmaceutical pricing, antitrust policies, public land management, national energy policy, patent protection, communications, and foreign affairs. Other legal areas in which LNL works include antitrust law, money laundering, media relations, and legal ethics.

All the LNL lawyers have a strong background in economic and energy issues. Most have previously served as congressional staff members.
